Happy Monday!

On Friday, Evelyn and I attended the AIA Saginaw Valley chapter's annual picnic. We had a great time and a great discussion at the chapter's Repositioning meeting. The meeting was graciously hosted by Shelly Harrington, AIA, who has a beautiful home in Port Austin and I have included a few photos from the meeting below:

The Courthouse is in Session: Sept 6th!

We all want vibrant, sustainable, and livable communities: historical buildings help. Joining the past to the present and the present to the past is not always easy. Done thoughtfully, preservation can knit past and present together to create a whole greater than the sum of the parts.

Kendall is honored to have Mayor George Heartwell, City of Grand Rapids and Brian Conway, Michigan State Historic Preservation Officer, to give opening and closing remarks, as well as an impressive group of panelists!

Location: Kendall College of Art and Design's Historic Federal Building in downtown Grand Rapids

When: Friday, September 6, 2013 (5:30pm Reception, 6:30pm Program).

Space is limited. Please RSVP early.
