

Project Designer

T+E+A+M is an award-winning architecture practice based in Ann Arbor, Michigan where the four principals are professors at the University of Michigan. With backgrounds in research, installations, exhibitions, and fabrication, we founded T+E+A+M to pursue building projects informed by material experimentation and a love of design. Current projects include housing and residential, commercial, and retail interiors. We are a highly collaborative team that values good communication internally and among the larger project team.

Job Description

We are looking for a talented and experienced designer to join our small team starting immediately. This position is full-time with a limited term of 6 months to start, and the possibility of continuing beyond that period.

The successful candidate will be able to jump right into design and project management for multiple ongoing projects. A typical day might include a variety of things, such as coordination meetings, code or material research, 3d modeling and design iteration, making presentation drawings, and client communications. The candidate will also work closely with principals to help manage projects from early concept design phases into construction administration, taking on more of the project management responsibilities as they gain familiarity with our working methods and projects.

We are working remotely now and into the foreseeable future, so residing in southeast Michigan is not a requirement. However, being available during the workday (in EST timezone) is essential, and preference will be given to qualified candidates in the Detroit area for on site coordination.
