

Ann Arbor architecture firm seeking preservation architect.

Licensed architect with minimum 15 years of experience in all aspects of historic preservation and architecture, from research and analysis to technical expertise in creating construction documents. Experience in preservation technology, working with the Secretary of the Interior Standards, and historic preservation tax credit work is required.

Interested individuals should be motivated, self-directed, and interested in being a part of a highly collaborative office setting. This position would entail leading projects, mentoring staff and providing leadership in the office.

HopkinsBurns Design Studio's work ranges from public buildings to residential projects in the practice areas of historic preservation and communities by design. Recent notable projects include the Grand Hotel, Fishtown, Vicksburg Paper Mill, and rehabilitation of the most historic buildings on the University of Michigan and Michigan State University campuses.

Interested parties should submit their letter of interest with resume to:
elizabeth.sensoli@hopkinsburns.com